Widest Variety of Examinations In History of BJC To Be Given During Week of Fall Semester Finals

The examinations of the fall semester at Boise Junior college cover a wider arrangement of classes than have before been noted. Several new subjects were introduced this semester and have helped to swell the school's roster.

Students in the 24 sections of the English department will meet in the gymnasium to take their examinations. Approximately 500 students are scheduled to take English tests, according to Miss Elma Gockley, college registrar.

The chemistry department, which also offers courses to a large percentage of students, will hold examinations in the Student Union ballroom.

BJC Graduate Is Named Health Head

Dr. Terrell O. Carver

An alumnus of BJC, Dr. Terrell O. Carver, was named state health administrator Friday, Jan. 17, by the Idaho Board of Health.

Carver attended BJC for two years, majoring in science, and graduated with an associate of arts degree in June, 1940.

Dr. Carver was former medical director of the Boise-Ada County health department. Previous to this post, he was director of the state division of preventive medicine.

Starting Feb. 1, Dr. Carver will take over as chief administrative officer of the Idaho department of public health.

Carlson Outlines AFSC Projects

Mr. Robert A. Carlson, representative of the American Friends Service committee, addressed a group of students in room 110 during last Thursday's break. He outlined the extent and purposes of the summer and year-round work and study projects sponsored by the AFSC.

The committee provides work in the United States, Mexico, and almost all parts of Europe for students who are interested in employment in hospitals, correctional institutes, and community projects. Mr. Carlson pointed out that the monetary satisfaction is little but the value of the camps lay in their providing a "laboratory situation to test the practicality of book learning." The Quaker organization aims through its program to dissolve tensions between men and nations and to create a feeling of mutual sympathy through understanding.

Wednesday Devotional

Reverend Carl Kime of the Mountain View Church of the Brethren, presided over the weekly campus devotional services, held in the auditorium Jan. 22, 9:50 a.m. The service consisted of Bible selections by Rev. Kime and organ music by Mr. C. Griffith Bratt.

pective Graduates ed to Contact Advisors

Students who plan graduate in June are urged meet with their advisors before final examinations, stated
Chatham, dean of faculty.
The purpose of this meeting is to inform the students on their standing and to fill out the proposed course schedule for the spring semester so that no minute problems can be delayed.
Freshman students are asked to refrain from seeking the advice of their advisors unless it is a matter of importance so that the prospective graduates will have the opportunity to seek necessary advice.

President Chaffee Sends the Following Message To the Students on the Eve of Final Examinations:

May I wish you well in finishing your semester's work. The credits you make are like money in the bank. Your credits are real money, rather than counterfeit or fiat money, because your college is accredited by one of the six regional accrediting associations that cover the United States. The credits of each person become a permanent lifetime deposit that you can draw on over and over again. The value of that deposit is not only an educated person, but it is conditioned by the quality of your grade; an A is worth infinitely more than a D; and an F is an eternal liability.

EUGENE B. CHAFFEE,
President

IN OUR OPINION . . .

"What are you contributing to Boise Junior College?"

This is one of the questions Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, dean of women, asks girls who come into her office for their prescribed conference with her.

This is also a question every student should ask himself. Is he merely here, taking what comes his way, or is he putting his time, efforts and ideas to his school?

When applying for college entrance applications and for information about extra-curricular activities as well as scholastic records. Outside interests also play an important role in the student's eligibility, particularly when he is seeking financial aid through scholarships and student loans.

College is not simply an institution for learning about arts and sciences. It is a place where a student meets new people and learns to get along with others. This cannot be accomplished fully in a class room.

A campus organization is made up of students interested in the same things you are. Select one now and join it. Learn from fellow students as they, in turn, will learn from you.

Nursing Convention Valentine's Day Is Date Set for Sweethearts Ball

Miss Florence Miles, director of nursing at BJC, was one of the speakers at the first district institute of the Idaho Nursing Home Association held January 16 in the Student Union.

Brooks Martin, Department of Health, at 9:00 p.m.; and adjournment at 9:30 p.m.

VOCATIONAL SHOPS RECEIVE CHRYSLER ENGINE

The Chrysler Corporation recently presented a 350 h.p. motor to the vocational department of Boise Junior college, according to Mr. C. Wain, vocational director. It was largely due to the efforts of Mr. W. A. Thurber of Hensing-Thurber Co. of Boise that the department received the motor. The model, a 300C internal combustion engine which has power steering and an automatic transmission, is being used as a demonstrator.

Les Bois Editor Reports Progress

Miss James Obenauer, editor of the BJC annual, "Les Bois," reports that the publication is being completed on schedule.

Pages within the "Les Bois" are now being sold to the various clubs on the campus and pictures are being taken of the organizations and their clubs. Miss Obenauer requests that the clubs start turning in their activity pictures.

The staff, she said, is also working on the school administration section at the present time.

Miss Obenauer said that "due to industrious actions of the annual staff, the student body may expect the Les Bois to appear approximately the week before second semester final tests."

James, last year's assistant editor, stated "I am satisfied with the progress, and the quality of the annual will be very good."

Teacher of the Week

Mrs. Ruth Conard

The Roundup presents Miss Ruth Conard, "Teacher of the Week."

A member of the English department, Miss Conard teaches four classes of freshman composition and, in addition, a class in social patterns, a course which she initiated at Boise Junior college two years ago.

Miss Conard is a native of Decatur, Illinois. She attended Oxford Women's school and received her A.B. from De Pauw university in Greencastle, Indiana. After studying in Switzerland and the University of Grenoble in France, she returned to teach in Wisconsin. Miss Conard came to BJC in 1952, after having resigned her post at Decatur in favor of the west.

Miss Conard lists Idaho gem stones as her "at home" hobby. She collects, shapes, and polishes the stones and uses them as settings in rings, pins, and other items of jewelry.

Her "at school" hobby is an activity of vastly greater magnitude. It is a sincere and abiding interest in the well-being of the many students at BJC who have sought her counsel. Whether their problems are academic or off-campus in character, her interest in the students is constant.

"I am very happy at BJC," says Miss Conard. "I love the work here, I love the city of Boise." Her affection for the college is certainly reciprocated by the students, as is evident by the waiting line outside her office door.

BJC Radio-Television Class Presents "She Walks In Beauty" Over KBOI

"She Walks In Beauty," a television production, produced in its entirety by students of BJC, was presented Saturday afternoon, Jan. 18, at KBOI.

Mr. Leonard Shapiro, faculty advisor, said the entire production staff was made up of members of his English 45 radio-television class. He stated also that the production was originally produced "live" on the Kate Smith hour.

The presentation of it, he said, marked a theatrical "first" since it was the initial dramatic offering, written especially for television, to have been produced and presented in the Boise valley.

Mr. Shapiro added that this was probably the first time that the TV staging technique known as "cine-theatre" has been used in Boise on a local station. "Cine-theatre" is a staging technique using a total black background to emphasize the faces of the actors for greater dramatization. Albert McCleery was the first director ever to use this technique.

At the auditions which were held in December, actors were chosen for the production. Cast for the dramatic roles in "She Walks In Beauty" were: Marge Sargent, Eleanore Warnstrom, Allyn Malone, and Howard Jenkins.

The production staff included: Larry Murdock, assistant director; Bob Pyle and Ron Geertson, floor directors; Marge Sargent, set design; Eleanore Warnstrom, audio; Dan Chun, boom; Paul Mumford and Roger Loundsbury, camera; William Jones, lighting; and Roy Thompson and Ron Geertson on video.

"She Walks In Beauty" was the semester production, prescribed as a work project in the English 45 class.

Mr. Shapiro announced that the BJC schedule for next semester will include from two to three "live" shows.

Boys Intramural Basketball Launches Round-Robin Tournament; Enyart, Stower, Hawaiians Post First Wins

Three basketball games during the last week launched the intramural basketball round-robin tournament. Six of the seven teams entered, battled it out Thursday evening and Friday afternoon. The results of the games are: Enyart, 35—Kopta, 30; Stower, 52—Intercollegiate Knights, 43; Hawaiians, 67—Burleson, 50. The seventh team which did not play was Carlson's.

The winning team will be chosen on game average.
